

The Delaware River Port Authority Police Department utilizes body worn cameras for all officers. The department has deployed the Motorola/Watchguard V300 Body Camera's which is a durable high-definition camera worn on the front of officer's uniforms. The V300 (pictured below) wirelessly uploads the video and audio captured to a secure cloud-based site where video can be reviewed by police administrators. The Delaware River Port Authority Police Department welcomes this addition to our agency as it will enhance officer safety, promote police accountability, assist in prosecutions, and provide a transparent unbiased view of interactions between our officers and the public we interact with daily.
